

We have a daughter currently in Year 6 and another daughter who has been through St Peter's – both girls have thrived. All staff, from the school office to the Headteacher, really get to know the children and their individual needs, combining the right amount of fun with discipline, whilst still being caring.

The school has a community feel to it and, in our case, has helped our children deal with bereavement and illness within our family. The staff genuinely care for the children and will do whatever needs to be done to help them through their time at the school.

Whatever your beliefs, we feel the Catholic ethos brings an additional level of caring and compassion between both staff and parents.

We couldn't have hoped for a better start to our children's school lives.

We had, in our minds, already 'decided' on our first choice of primary school for our son before viewing St Peter's but that all changed after the open evening.

We were really struck by the obvious sense of community and togetherness at the school. The single form entry reassured us that our son wouldn't just be another name amongst the masses.

We loved that the school really emphasizes the importance of reading – both educational and for fun – as it is something we feel passionate about. Our son's first year at school has been unique. However, it has always been clear that all the staff at St Peter's place the welfare of the children at the centre of any decisions made.

I have three children who have all attended St Peter's. My eldest has now left and the youngest has just started. Each of them really enjoy their time at school and have great relationships with the teachers.

There is a great community feel at the school and each teacher knows every pupil – a great advantage of a smaller school. It's a lovely welcoming school where the children feel happy and are thriving.

We have always been extremely pleased with our decision to send our children to St Peter's.

I send my children to St Peter's because it has such an inclusive and loving ethos; it's a very special school community. Every effort is made by the staff to get to know my children on an individual basis. I know that they are valued and appreciated for what they can bring to school life.

They love it at St Peter's and are thriving.

My stand out memory from being shown round the school on my first visit to St Peter's was the family atmosphere – everyone in the school cares about each other and the children are really nurtured and supported. The Headteacher and staff know each child and their family and strive to do their absolute best for every single child.

My daughter has been very happy during her time at the school and has been given many opportunities to succeed and develop personally as well as academically.

As we look towards secondary school for her, I know that, as a family, we will be sad to leave St Peter's but know that she has been set up brilliantly for the future.
