

This what I already know about fairy tales and fictional characters:

Fictional characters are Paw Patrol. Sometimes there are kings and queens. Sometimes they eat bad things and get poisoned like Snow White. Sometimes there are Princesses and dwarfs. Little Red Riding Hood went to her Grandma's house and the wolf tricked her. Sleeping Beauty had a spell put on her by the bad guy. If she touched the spinning wheel she would be dead. But a kiss from the Prince broke the spell. Princesses have crowns and dresses. They always start Once Upon a time. They are also in Spanish. Fairy Tales are not true. Goldilocks stole the three bears porridge and ate it all up. Princesses and kings live in palaces. They're pointy and have really big rooms. Dragons blow out fire. Zog goes on journeys helping people. Paddington come from darkest Peru. Julia Donaldson writes really good books. Fairy tales are stories for children and can be about princesses. In the three little pigs the wolf hurts his bottom. Fairy tales have happy endings. They don't exist. Fairy tales are often set in the past.

I would like to investigate and explore about fairy tales and fictional characters:

Captain Hook, Snow White and Sleeping Beauty. What is Thumbelina about? What do princesses wear when they are outside? Why are they not real? Learn about the people who make stories like Julia Donaldson. Gobbling up monsters. Can fairy tales be funny? Cinderella.

I would like to visit or meet in relation to fairy tales and fictional characters:
