I am writing to you because I need your help. I have been living in the garden next door for a little while now. I really like your garden. I have noticed that you also like your garden. Some of the things you have out in the garden are really wonderful. I like your tyres and planks. I can balance on them quite well.

I know it is your garden and I am just a visitor and I have been told I am not allowed in your garden when you are there. I am sorry that I have popped in a few times, I get confused sometimes and I get lost.

So, as I mentioned I need your help... could you let me know when you are in your garden and when I am allowed to be in your garden? I know about day time and night time, but I get very confused. I am quite good at reading, so if you write a sign it could tell me the rules.

I saw some of you in the garden with a map and I asked my dad about maps – he told me they are useful to find out where you need to go. Maybe a map will help me!

I hope you can help me?

I look forward to hearing from you.
